

Infant Teacher Position North Seattle Infant Cooperative Preschool

The Infant Program located at North Seattle College has a children's teacher opening for Fall 2018. Our cooperative preschool program has a rich, long standing history in our community of over 40 preschool classes. Currently we are looking for a dynamic, community-oriented, and creative teacher to join the Infant Program for the Academic Year of 2018-2019. This wonderful class for infants and their parents/caregivers meets one time weekly on Mondays from 10:00am-12:00pm with required set up time before and cleanup time after class hours.

We are looking for someone who:

- has an early childhood education background and/or experience in a preschool setting;
- is a community-oriented teacher who is comfortable working with infants and parents in a cooperative classroom setting;
- is a highly motivated-self-starter;
- adds new skills and ideas to the existing infant program;
- provides a culturally relevant, anti-bias curriculum which creates a welcoming, inclusive environment for families from diverse cultural and linguistic backgrounds, and those with special needs.

We offer:

- enthusiastic parent support from warm, appreciative families who are highly involved in the school;
- a competitive salary range;
- paid sick days and holidays;
- opportunities for professional development;
- a large, cheerful classroom with ample supplies and equipment;
- an opportunity to work with and get support from a consulting Parent Educator from North Seattle College.

The North Seattle Infant Co-op is affiliated with the North Seattle College cooperative preschool system. We follow EOE guidelines and encourage candidates from diverse backgrounds to apply.
